This week we have a look at architecture. It's a study path for which there are always many inquiries. Staffordshire University, University of Sheffield and University of Strathclyde are three excellent choices to study architecture. The programs are structured slightly differently and all have their strengths and benefits. One of the important points is that with a degree in architecture, there are a multitude of career paths to pursue. The Staffordshire University video below highlights a few of those possibilities.
